demonstrates the inescapable fact that we are outgrowing the stadium which we built only about 10 years ago. We could use a couple of new sections added to the present structure, a modern lighting system and a larger press box.

And the way the crowds have turned out in recent years—win, lose or draw—we could pay for all this quickly enough.

Price control became increasingly apparent today even amid the jubilation of the election triumph. Southern congressmen talked harmony but warned ominously against any attempt by the Northern wing of the party to ram through legislation outlawing the poll tax, lynching or job discrimination.

Birth Control Remains Illegal in Massachusetts

Boston, Nov. 3 — (UP) — Birth control remained illegal in Massachusetts today after voters rejected a referendum attempt to change the state's 69-year-old statute on "chastity, morality, decency and good order."

Returns from 1,204 of the state's 1,879 precincts showed a 645,059 to 507,130 vote against amendment which have permitted qualified physicians to prescribe contraception for married women when necessary to safeguard life or health.

The Catholic church officially opposed the referendum on grounds that artificial con-traception violates moral law.

racketeer. Of course, this is general comment, but I, alone, of the savants on the subject, often resort to unqualified charges.

Most of the victims of the Roosevelt-Wagner-Frankfurter scheme against the safety and liberty of the citizens are civic defectives who deserve what they have been getting. They are persons of low principle who would sell themselves to any John L. Lewis for a few dollars a week or a promise of some underserved pension at the expense of the civic defective next door.

But even if most of the Americans were men and women of character they still would have to submit to outrageous imposition by the criminal clients of Frankfurter's solicitude.

Tokyo. Nov. 4 (UP)— Thirty-cight of the original 55 war crimes charges against former Premier Hideki Tojo and 24 other Japanese leaders were thrown out by the Far East War Crimes Tribunal which met today to deliver its long-awaited verdict.

Verdicts and sentences on the remaining 17 charges are expected to be announced in about a week, after the court has read through the preliminary part of the voluminous judgment.

Tribunal President Sir William Webb of Australia began reading the judgment when the court convened for its final session this morning. The judgment appeared to be about 1,700 pages. It was estimated Webb could read about 1,000 pages a day.

Of course, no state, county or village would think of delegating such power even to a regularly elected and highly respected citizen.
